

itelligence makes €12,000 Christmas donation to Bethel

Bielefeld, December 24, 2006 – This Christmas, itelligence, the Bielefeld-based IT full-service provider in the SAP environment, is donating €10,000 to the v. Bodelschwingsche Anstalten Bethel children's clinic and €2,000 to the hospice in Bethel. This is the latest step in the Company's now-traditional 'Donations instead of Christmas gifts' campaign. The clinic is planning use the donation to purchase a new infusion device for blood transfusions, among other things.

Jörg Vandreier, Chief Financial Officer of itelligence AG, said: "Bethel is a local organization that performs exemplary welfare work. With the motto 'Children are our future' in mind, we have decided to split our donation this year, giving most of it to the children's clinic but not forgetting the important hospice work that is also performed by Bethel. We are delighted to be able to support this work with our donation."

Herbert Vogel, Chairman of the Board of itelligence AG, added: "I am particularly pleased that our 'Donations instead of Christmas gifts' campaign has been so well received among our customers, who have been happy to go without their gifts for what is a truly good cause."
