- Duet: SAP launches Microsoft Office products

Bielefeld, March 8, 2007 – With an extended exhibition area, itelligence is presenting itself as one of the leading full-service IT providers for SAP at CeBIT 2007 in Hanover. In hall 4, stand D 38, the SAP consulting company is one of the first SAP partners to present examples of the new SME solution "SAP All-in-One for Instrument and Component Manufacturers". The hotly anticipated addition to the SAP All-in-One range is based on the latest SOA standard for service-oriented architecture and already includes preconfigured CRM functions for more customer service. The goal: a dramatic further reduction in the introduction time for the ERP package for SMEs.

Duet, the joint software from SAP and Microsoft, is expected to revolutionize SAP views and user habits as occasional SAP users and those who do not currently use it will intuitively be able to operate the DUET application thanks to the existing Microsoft interface and, at the same time, can take advantage of the benefits of SAP processes. In Duet, SAP also demonstrates the new technical possibilities of SOA-based software. At CeBIT, itelligence is presenting examples of this simplified user interface taken from the areas of human resources, budget, organization and reporting.

Other highlights being presented by itelligence include SAP GTS (Global Trade Services) – for customs and export management for an optimized and globally secure supply chain. European customs standards and the overview of applicable boycott lists help export-oriented SMEs to work efficiently and within the law in global competition.

itelligence is also providing information on the effect of optimized international SAP roll-outs and the tight network of itelligence consultants in 15 countries as part of a special demonstration at its stand using practical examples. itelligence will also be revealing the secret of its quality features and project coordination at international level.
